Graduate 32 Apprentices May 2

Apprentices Hear Talks by Hessling, Fr. Rudolfus, Mingus

While proud parents and interested guests and supervisors looked on, 32 apprentices of the Class of 1943 received their diplomas at graduation ceremonies at the Lago Club May 2.

The ceremonies marked the end for these boys of the Company's four-year Apprentice Training Program and made the boys full-fledged productive employees of the Company. Acting Assistant General Manager J. M. Whiteley was Master of Ceremonies and presented the diplomas. The speakers on the occasion were H. A. Hessling (speaking for Lt. Governor Kwartzsz), Brother Rudolfus (acting Inspector of Education), Acting General Manager O. Mingus, and M. A. Cooper speaking for the graduates.

In his speech to the gathering, Mr. Hessling stressed the point that though they had finished the training which they had started as boys they were now really beginning their lives as a part of this large oil company which shows so much interest in Aruba's youth. He further stated that the young men might not find that everything would come easily with them at first. "Keep on bravely," he said, "for he who wishes to succeed must persevere." He said that all of them should consider themselves as valuable members to the organization and to prove to the Company that they are loyal to her as she is to them.

Brother Rudolfus cautioned the boys against thinking that they knew everything already. "..... you will soon find out that you have to learn a great deal still," he declared. Brother Rudolfus urged the young men to be careful with their money, spend it wisely, and to put aside a part of their wages each week in order to have something to use when they have a real need.

In closing he gravely warned the boys against liquor, a habit he said, "which undermines the prosperity and moral strength of this people." "..... liquor is your worst enemy. If addicted to liquor, you are lost, morally and economically."

Mr. Mingus congratulated the boys on their success and pointed out to them that they now possessed mental tools (knowledge) which will last a lifetime, and with experience these tools will be of great benefit to themselves as well as the Company. He said that we remember with pride Lago's achievements during the war years, but that now the refinery is processing more crude oil than ever before in its history — including the war years.

Mr. Mingus mentioned the large sums of money to be spent for improvements, and said that there would be a need for trained, competent and efficient workmen and supervisors. He said that the increasing use of petroleum in Latin America would make Aruba's position in the future just as strong as ever, as it (Latin America) is a natural outlet for our production. He closed with the remarks that, "..... by the unremitting help of every employee from the president to the newest apprentice, 'there'll always be a Lago'."

M. A. Cooper made a short talk in behalf of the apprentices and thanked the Company for the training they had had and promised for his class that they would do their best to become good employees. He also mentioned the boys were grateful to their instructors for their patience with them.

After the graduation exercises were over parents and guests of the graduates enjoyed refreshments while looking at exhibits of the boys' workmanship.

This bonus was the result of cost-of-living surveys carried on by management assisted by the E.A.C. This is the second of such bonuses, a previous one having been granted in February, 1947 in the amount of 2.7 per cent of the previous three months earnings.

W.R.C. Miller Retires Leaves Chippendale, Clower Advance

With the departure of W. R. C. Miller from Aruba after 19 years of service announcement was made May 19, of the appointment to Mechanical Superintendent of H. C. Chippendale to replace Mr. Miller.

Mr. Chippendale came to Aruba in 1930 as a mechanical engineer. In 1943 he had become Mechanical and Maintenance division superintendent, the position he has held until his recent promotion.

C. M. Clower, who took over Mr. Chippendale's duties as division superintendent, was first employed with the Standard Oil Co. at the Huasteca Petroleum Co. at Tampico, Mexico from 1920 to 1938. During 1938 and 1939 he worked for the Lago Oil and Transport Co. in Aruba and then was transferred to the Standard Oil Co. of Venezuela. He was transferred back to Aruba in 1943. In March, 1947, he became assistant division superintendent, the position he has held until the present time.

Stevedores Presented Plaque For Past Year's Safety Record

In a short meeting at the M. & C. office May 12, the Company's stevedoring division was awarded the first place plaque in the National Safety Council's yearly contest for safe ship and cargo handling.

This year Lago's wharfingers (of the Receiving and Shipping Department) and the stevedores (of M. & C.'s Labor Department) together compiled a prize winning record of only four lost time accidents for the contest year which ran from July 1946 to June 1947. In the past ten years the Company's stevedores have taken first place in the contest nine times; and the one time they missed it they came out in second place, which is not so bad either.

The plaque was received from G. N. Owen, Safety Supervisor, by H. C. Chippendale, M. & C. head and F. E. Griffin, Process Superintendent, for the stevedores and wharfingers, respectively.

Dutch Soldiers Guests of Colony

Through the combined efforts of the Lago Community Council and the American Legion, the new detachment of Dutch soldiers recently arrived in Aruba was entertained at a hamburger-fry at the American Legion Home on the evening of May 12.

The new garrison arrived from Holland about six weeks ago and relieved the local soldiers. Some of the men had known each other before coming here but most were strangers to one another. The party at the Legion Home was the first time the men had been out of Savaneta Camp for any entertainment of this kind.

That the party was a success was indicated by the fact that the half-dozen truckloads of soldiers left at the end of the affair serenading their hosts with their favorite songs.

A Look Ahead.

Helping to supply the petroleum needs of the world for some time to come will be Aruba's job, according to a speech made at the recent apprentice graduation ceremony by O. Mingus, acting general manager.

Recent developments seem to confirm Mr. Mingus' remarks, in that the refinery is now processing more crude oil than ever before — more even than during the tense war years when Lago was one of the main suppliers of military fuels to the Allies.

The Lake Fleet too has recently made several additions in order to keep the crude brought in on a par with the oil produced; and the Company's training program is constantly growing in order to provide more competent and trained employees.

Evidence of long range planning for bigger and better things comes from Oranjestad where millions of guilders are being spent for vast improvements to the harbor and surrounding area, where new government buildings have recently been completed, where new stores, restaurants and theaters are springing up.

It is a comforting thought to see all these plans and activities in progress and feel that, contrary to some beliefs, Aruba can look forward to many more years of prosperity.

Unfortunate Accident Befalls Lago Electrician

While an electrical gang was preparing to test a switch starter in the switchroom at No. 11 Gas Oil Still in the Refinery on May 9, Lucene Anastacia, a member of the Electrical Department received a high voltage shock which resulted in his death. Artificial respiration was started immediately after the accident and continued after the arrival of the doctor who came at once, and also during transportation by ambulance to the hospital. All efforts of resuscitation were unsuccessful.

The still was out of operation for general inspection including necessary work in the switchroom. The electric current was shut off from the switchroom. Mr. Anastacia was cleaning one of the large knife-type disconnects when a 220 volt of current was connected to the starter switch from an outside source for test purposes. Through an accidental connection, the test current backed up through the transformer to where Mr. Anastacia was working.

The deceased was from Curaçao and became an employee of Lago after his Un bista den futuro.

Yuda den provisamento di necesidadnan di petroleum di mundo pa algun tempo ainda, lo ta e trabao di Aruba, segun un discurso di O. Mingus, gerente general interino, na e reciente ceremonia di graduacion di Aprendiznan.

Reciente desaroyonan parece ta confirmá e observacionnan di Sr. Mingus, cu refinaria awor ta refiná mas azeta crudo cu nunca antes — más ainda cu durante e anjanan forzá di guerra, tempo cu Lago tabata un di e provisadonan principal di azeta pa Aliadonan.

Lake Fleet di Lago tambe a worde haci mas grandi recientemente pa mantene e azeta crudo pareuw cu e azeta cu ta worde refiná; y e programa di entrenamiento di Compania ta crece constantemente pa por haya empleadonan mas competente y entrená.

Evidencia di plannan extensivo pa cosnan mehor y mas grandi ta bini di Oranjestad, unda millones di florin ta worde gastá pa drechamento extenso di haaf y den su cercania, unda edificionan nobo di gobierno a worde completá recientemente y unda tiendanan nobo, restaurantnan y teatronan ta lamta.

Tur e plannan y actividadnan aki ta prueba cu contrario di loque algun hende ta kere, Aruba por spera hopi anjanan mas di prosperidad.

Warship Returns Hero To Home in Aruba

As the warship Van Speyck nosed up to the dock in Oranjestad April 28, a quiet and respectful crowd awaited with pride and sadness the return to his home of Aruba's war hero, Segundo "Boy" Ecury, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Ecury of Oranjestad and brother of Nydia, Hubert and Reuben of Lago.

The ship was met by members of his family and officials and "Boy's" body was borne in procession to St. Francis Church where mass was sung, and then to the cemetery where it was laid to rest with eulogies by Governor P. Kassteel and those who knew him well.

"Boy" was born in Aruba on April 23, 1922 and grew up here making many friends. As he reached young manhood the recent war in Europe broke out. He immediately entered his country's service, joining the Dutch underground movement in Holland. He served faithfully and courageously, constantly risking his life to liberate prisoners, aid shot down pilots, and help the oppressed to escape. Boy was eventually taken, and fell in his county's service before a German firing squad in Scheveningen, Holland in November, 1944.

His faithful service and the brave sacrifice of his life came to the attention of Her Royal Majesty Queen Wilhelmina, and in a letter to the hero's family she expressed her sympathy. ".....when he together with some other underground fighters, was arrested at Rotterdam, he knew what fate was awaiting him. Quietly and with full surrender to God's will he gave his life for our freedom before the German firing squad in the dunes at Scheveningen.

I hereby convey my sincere sympathy to you and your children with this grievous loss.

He was a great son of those who lived and fought under the Netherlands tricolor.

I shall continue to remember his deeds with pride" (signed) Wilhelmina.

S.O.D. President Urges Aid

In a recent talk to the Research Committee of the New England Council, R. P. Russell, president of the Standard Oil Development Co., stated that the industrial and agricultural skills of the United States should be extended to nations friendly to the U.S., particularly those in the Western Hemisphere.

"These countries are eager for a way of living which they cannot now provide through their own skills", he said. If the U.S. does not come to their aid, they will turn to inferior substitutes which may in the long run prove to be unfavorable to us. Though in the next several years the U.S. will have far fewer trained technical men than it needs, Mr. Russell said that our technical manpower must be stretched to the utmost until our instructions can provide us with the well-trained men and women that are needed.

"Not only must we endeavor with depleted staffs to meet our own pressing problems, but, in my opinion, a way must somehow be found to take care of at least some of the requirements of neighboring countries", Mr. Russell declared.

Increase Capacity of Lake Fleet By Addition of Ocean Tankers

In order to bring the crude oil haulage capacity up to meet the increasing production in the Lake, two more ocean tankers, the Paul H. Harwood and the Dixiano were added to the Lake Fleet May 2.

The Paul H. Harwood has long been a familiar ship to Aruba, as it has been in the Caribbean service for some time and has been making frequent stops at Aruba. She is an ocean tanker of almost 7,000 tons and it is expected that she will be able to carry about 37,000 barrels of crude to Aruba per trip.

The Dixiano has been, up to this time, carrying wheat and sulphur, though she has carried oil. Her tonnage is a little over 4,000 and she will be carrying between 21 and 28,000 barrels of cargo in the Lake run.

Later in May, the Esso Bayway was to join the Lake service with an even greater carrying capacity than the previously named ships. She is expected to be able to haul in the neighborhood of 42,000 barrels per trip, which is more than any ship now in the Lake service.

FOOTBALL Continued from Page 1 was so good on both sides that up to the final whistle either side could have won and no one would have been surprised. The Lago forward line played a beautiful game, displaying teamwork of a type champions are made from.

The Charming Miss Cockroach

One day Miss Cockroach was sweeping her room and she found a penny. As she bent down to pick it up, the dust flew into her eyes. She hardly noticed it; she was so happy with her penny and wondered what to buy with it. At last she decided on a piece of ribbon for her hair. After she put it on she sat down by the open window. She looked very pretty.

Mr. Bull went by and fell in love with her right away and he said: "Miss Cockroach, will you marry me?" As the dust was still in her eyes, Miss Cockroach couldn't see how handsome the bull was and she said: "What sound do you make?" The bull said: "Mooo, mooo!" Miss Cockroach cried: "Ooh, I'm afraid of you. I won't marry you."

Then Mr. Donkey went by and he also fell in love with her and asked her to marry him. "What sound do you make?" said Miss Cockroach. The donkey said: "Hee, haw; hee, haw!" Miss Cockroach said: "You frightened me. I won't marry you."

Mr. Goat went by next, and Mr. Dog and Mr. Cat and even Mr. Pig, but Miss Cockroach was afraid of all of them. Finally there came a little mouse and he said: "M-miss Cockroach, will you m-m-marry me, p-please?" "What sound do you make?" she asked, but the mouse was so shy, that he couldn't make any sound at all and then Miss Cockroach decided to marry him and they lived happily for some time.

One day when Miss Cockroach was going to the market she said to her husband: "Mousy dear, there is a pot on the stove. Stay away from it." The mouse was very curious and when his wife was gone he climbed on the pot to see what was cooking, but he slipped and then he was cooked, in syrup.

Miss Cockroach cried very much, so much that she grew whiskers, and that's why roaches have long whiskers.
